Polish-Nazi Compromise Is Now Sought

GENEVA, Aug. 15.—The League of Nations is ready to abandon its protection over the Free City of Danzig, league sources said today, if Poland approves such action as a step toward solution of its quarrel with Germany.

FLAMES NEAR OLDS BURNING OVER BIG AREA

Fire So Hot Men Cannot Approach to Give Battle

OLDS, Alta., Aug. 15.—A forest fire in the Tepee Pole Creek area, about 60 miles west of Olds, burned over a wider area yesterday and the fire chief said he feared little could be done if the flames spread over Marble Mountain, reports Olds.

The five-day blaze was fanned by light shifting winds today. Dry dense undergrowth in the heavily timbered peaks fed the flames.

The firefighters were unable to get within half a mile of the blaze due to smoke generated by the blaze, it was said.

Supt. Alexander of Calgary, in charge of fire fighting in the Rockies, said the fire was in the foresty branch that the crew probably would be increased.

Some 200 men were sent to the south to reinforce the foresty branch officials to lake precautions against start and spread of fires.

With the tourist season at its height officials are appealing to all visitors and travellers to exercise the greatest care in fires and matches.

In the meantime, fire in the Elk Island State Park and Fort Macleod area between Wainwright and the Alberta Valley also continues to constitute a menace.

Cuts are being made on all fires and every effort is being made to prevent their spreading.

GAS BOARD CUT TO TWO MEMBERS TANNER REPORTS

For the time being at least the Alberta Conservation Board will consist of two members instead of three, it was up until now, Hon.

M. E. Tanner, minister of mines, announced Tuesday. Members of the board are C. W. Dingle, manager of the oil and gas division of the lands and mines department, and F. C. Craig, former auditor of the Royal Bank of Canada.

Mr. Tanner will carry on as acting chairman.

When formed a little over a year ago, the conservation board consisted of three members. In the early days of the new board, some of its officials advised that demonstrators attacked the British residence of W. F. Knode, widely known oil and gas engineer and consultant of Texas. Mr. Knode was engaged on a year's contract at a salary of $10,000.

Mr. Knode's contract expired at the end of June and the Texas engineer had been unable to find another position on an office in Calgary, of which he is in charge.

Mr. Knode will continue to act as a consultant to the oil and gas conservation board although he is no longer a member.

PROPOSAL TO REDUCE CIVIC CENTRE HEARD

Alderman Ogilvie Suggests Cutting Off Two of South Blocks

Recommendation from the town planning commission will be sought by city council before adopting or rejecting a recommendation by the civic centre committee to add a new civic centre to the downtown area set aside as the future site for an Edmonton civic centre, council decided Monday night.

Orignal plan for the civic centre called for development of a beauty spot in the centre of the city to take in the main commercial area between the post office and the C.N.R. station. The ambitious scheme, adopted two years ago by civic leaders and others, also included to add a new and more decorative civic hall together with other civic buildings, such as a large civic auditorium and swimming pool.

The review concluded:

"The biggest concern is eight blocks of land in the south, where 2,000,000 men would give a marked predominance to any group with which they made common cause."

NEGOTIATING COMPROMISE OVER DANZIG

League Ready to Abandon Protection Over Free City

If Poles Approve

and its replacement by a joint German-Polish authority.

The question of League abandonment of Danzig has come up twice before—once in January and again last May—but each time Poland opposed it.

Now, however, it is said a proposal to take the League out of Danzig would certainly be adopted at the coming council session Sept. 8 or 9.

Such a report would go first to the committee of three of Britain, France and Soviet Russia which the League's protection of Danzig and then the council.

Open Disput Of Polish in Poland

WARSAW, Aug. 15.—Polish press and official circles indicated open dispute today of various rumored plans to save peace by new forms of compromise.

There was no evidence Poland had altered her opinion that partitioning Danzig would give the confirming German-Polish claims to rights in the Free City of Danzig could do any more than postpone war.

POLITICAL ARRANGEMENT

The Foreign Minister of the Kurie of Krakow declared that Germany obviously hopes to arrive by Sept. 15 at a political arrangement whereby Poland would be absorbed in three or four weeks.

Reports concerning the visit of Prof. Stefan Sosnowski, Minister of Nations to Hitler's High commissioner to Danzig, to Hitler last week were denied by Warsaw papers, despite such caption as "What Is Behind Hard Up To?"

PROPAGANDA MOVE

Polish circles described the meeting as a "political move between Borchardt and the German Chancellor as a 'propaganda' move" by Hitler.

What Poland fears is a possible settlement which might give Germany a free hand in Danzig. The Polish seem to be a German campaign to isolate Poland and establish this country as the "4th" greatest power.

Meanwhile Poland today observed the 10th anniversary of her victory over Warsaw in the victory of Poland over the Bolsheviks in 1920.

NEVER ACCEPT MISSION

Official quarters said Poland never would accept a mission such as the one which was sent to Czecho-Slovakia a year ago, headed by Viscount Runciman, now lord president of the court in the Chamber of Government.

Hitler, Polak believed, gave Borchardt a "politic" mission to Poland to be a Polish Hitler's distant negotiations in the "Geneva" style well known, Polish observers said, but Hitler's mission was to go to Warsaw to accept—would set him the task that Poland had made down a generous compromise.

FINAL BLOW

If the Czech-Slovak experience was any criterion, these sources said, the final blow would be to Warsaw unless Poland would accept the final blow.

"We may accept a well informed diplomatic prediction," all the familiar slogans of last September, Hitler's honor is at stake. That Hitler's influence in Poland is becoming indomitable. The Reich has exhausted all peaceful means."

Borchardt Sends Report To Britain

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Dr. Carl Borchardt, League of Nations high commissioner for Danzig, today said the government's report on the "general tenor" of his talk with Chancellor Hitler at Borchardt's Friday night.

Official quarters declined to discuss the report, declaring that this and any further communication arising out of the Borchardt-Hitler conference would be treated in strict confidence.

The situation was complicated by an announcement yesterday by an government official that Great Britain had not received either from a high commissioner or from any other quarter any communication on a settlement of the Danzig question.

PEACE PLAN HINTED

Reports from abroad have hinted that Hitler and Borchardt discussed a "peace plan" in Poland.

The foreign office and nothing was seen here of any intention of Borchardt to make a personal report to Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax, as reported in British.

It is authoritatively reported Britain was willing to negotiate a peace plan with Poland if a formula acceptable in Poland could be found.

At the same time, as a pointed reminder Polish interests must not be ignored, it was disclosed Great Britain's understanding to Poland was to be a formal alliance under a treaty of alliance to replace present mutual guarantees.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 15.—The Harvard Museum of Comparative Zoology exhibited today the body of a large sea monster found off Cape Cod, which zoologists said inhabited the waters about 130,000,000 years ago.

Reports concerning the visit of Prof. George M. Minot, High Commissioner to Danzig, to Hitler last week were denied by Warsaw papers, despite such caption as "What Is Behind Hard Up To?"

Eskimos Have Poor Fur Catch; Natives Of North Are Hard Up

ALBINO GOPHER ON DISPLAY IN CALGARY ZOO

CALGARY, Aug. 15.—An "albino gopher, estimated to number one in about 1,000,000 birds, today started his additional interest at Calgary's Zoo.

of eight finance minister, and secretary of state.

In addition there are nine vacancies in the senate, several judgeships, a vacant position on the Senate Commission, and the likely retirement of W. S. Edwards, deputy minister of justice, who has been ill for a year.

In the house of commons there are five vacancies, the result of the general election this year, which will go to those serving less than three years, but the latter have the advantage of permanency, and some will not be eligible for re-election to the house, possibly to one or two members of the cabinet.

Those appointed to the senate are A. L. Beaubien, Liberal member for Provencher; George H. Bond, Conservative for Kamloops; J. Fernand Fahey, Liberal member for Montagny-L'Islet; George W. McFee, Liberal member for Gaspé.

Jean Francois Pouliot, Liberal member for Temiscouata, has been mentioned as a possible choice for King's printer, and James M. Meltosh, Liberal member for North Battisford, may be appointed parliamentary secretary to the minister of state to the cabinet.

B. McKinnon, tariff commissioner, is prominent as a choice for chairman of the tariff board but would be hard to replace in his present position.

Sir John Diefenbaker, former Rimbousk and former deputy defense minister, is believed to be chosen for next lieutenant governor of Quebec. He was succeeded by Shelburne-Yarmouth-Clarke, will Shelburne-Yarmouth-Clarke will possibly be another deputy replacing W. A. Pound who retired on superannuation.

LIKELY APPOINTMENT

G. L. Saurin, acting superintendent of penitentiaries, is seen as a likely candidate for the three-man penitentiary commission.

H. B. McKinnon, tariff commissioner, is prominent as a choice for chairman of the tariff board but would be hard to replace in his present position.

Sir John Diefenbaker, former Rimbousk and former deputy defense minister, is believed to be chosen for next lieutenant governor of Quebec. PORTFOLIO OPENED

Death of Hon. Frank B. Blodgett, and resigning because of ill health of Finance Minister Charles Dunn, opened the portfolios of secretary of state and finance minister. Mr. Mackenzie King, who had accepted Mr. Dunn's resignation, was to accept Mr. Dunning's resignation. Hon. J. L. Haley, minister of revenue, addressed a formal telegram to the House of Commons in addition to his own department and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice, is acting minister of justice.

Some members of government supporters believe Thomas Vien, Liberal member for Guelph, and member of the old board of railway commissioners, may succeed Mr. Blodgett in the portfolio of finance.

There has been no talk as to who would succeed Mr. Dunning at the finance ministry should his tender be accepted.

Mr. Ernest Lapointe, former defence minister, may come back into the government.

MID-WINTER VOTE

It is understood Prime Minister Mackenzie King is of the opinion that the election will be delayed parliament for a general election while there is even the slightest possibility of a general election.

This precaution to the extent of having a mid-winter election if necesary.

Which ever way the decision goes it is believed a great number of appointments will be announced in the near future so that the normal routine of government service may proceed.

500 Back At Work

HULL, Que., Aug. 15.—More than 500 of the 120 men who lost their jobs in the steel strike have now been called back to work to help balance the unemployed expect to find jobs in a day or so. The men, who were laid off, have been supported by local assistance for the past two weeks.

Ottawa, Aug. 15.—Eskimos are hard up as the result of an unexpectedly poor fur catch last winter, but the health of the natives is improving according to a report received Monday by Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of resources from the eastern Arctic patrol now touring the sub-Arctic regions of the Northwest Territories.

The Eskimos are so healthy according to the report, because they did not have fur sufficient to live on, but the natives are not poor.

The Hudson's Bay Company has been calling at the Hudson's Bay Company posts collecting the winter's fur catch until at least 70 to 75 per cent from last year. Last year had been considered a model year for poor fur.

Commercial sealing will be necessary among the natives this winter.

The catch reduction came as a surprise to those engaged in forecasting cycles for white fox and will doubtless cause renewed interest in the question of establishing scientific stations in the far north.

A wireless message sent out by the Hudson's Bay Company posts collecting the winter's fur catch will find white fox plentiful.

Each post in the northern territories sends out questionnaires to some 200 persons in the Northwest Territories asking information as to the number of seals and the white fox feed, particularly lemmings, a small animal resembling a mouse.

For a few weeks past the catch of the white fox has followed a seven-year cycle. Starting at low level in a year, it rises to a peak every four years, then falls off for three years and then begins increasing again.

7-Year-Old Stowaway

Says "Hello" With Canadian Accent

Found Aboard Liner

GILANGOW, Aug. 15.—Seven-year-old Robert disappeared from his Greenwich home, James Taylor and his wife did not think of kidnapping or street accidents. They looked at each other and said "ships."

That long trip from Canada got the boy ideas. A week ago the youngster disarmed sailors with a grin said to be a "Hollywood name" and slipped onto a steamer for Rotwey, Scotland.

Police brought him home from that adventure.

The parents learned that Robert boarded the liner at Princess Pier, Greenock, and mingled with passengers bound for Canada, before getting aboard the liner in the regular way.

Canada's Exports to Japan

During the last session of parliament, Mr. Mackenzie King stated, in reply to a question by Rev. T. C. Douglas, C.C.F. member, that there was no truth to the oft-repeated charge that Canada had greatly increased its nickel exports. Canada's exports of nickel to all countries in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1939, were $12,000,000 less than the previous year.

The Chinese Council for Economic Research at Washington, in the United States, however, has arrived at an exact opposite conclusion. It charges that 94 per cent of the nineteen million dollars export trade from Canada to Japan last year has been in war goods or materials, and that Canada was the largest exporter of all British countries in this field in 1938. The specific charge is made that 91.29 per cent of all of Japan's nickel imports came from this country.

If the Chinese council is correct, Canada is arming an aggressor state which is not simply cutting China to pieces, but is also a present menace to British interests in the Pacific and a potential threat to all the nations of the Commonwealth.

Mr. King cited elaborate statistics to show that the total increase in the nickel trade in the past few years has been virtually negligible, and speaking with unique knowledge of the facts as prime minister, flatly denied that this country was engaged in a special war-trading arrangement with Japan or any other aggressor state. He also reminded parliament the value of nickel as a war commodity usually is vastly over-rated.

He pointed out that an arbitrary selection of trade figures might throw the scale of Canada's exports totally out of focus, giving a warped and false picture. The findings of the Chinese research council have to be studied more carefully before they can be given precedence over the statement of the prime minister.

This does not mean all is well in the trading arrangements between the democracies and Japan. Far from it. In 1938, only 14.8 per cent of the raw materials used for the manufacture of her munitions came from the Axis Powers. These powers, of course, had to export the bulk of it was supplied by the free states. No wonder the Chinese Council calls such a situation repugnant to reason.

Canada should not hesitate to do its share in seeing that Japan is not allowed to crush China with materials placed in her hands by the democracies. The best way to do that is to see the total trade picture of Japan in its proper perspective, and not, by special pleading based upon a few carefully chosen items, to argue that Canada is the major villain in the piece.

How About It?

As there is free trade in ideas between Canada and the United States, there can be no criticism surely to having the dominion taught by the American example how best to cope with the staggering problem of unemployment among young people.

The Civilian Conservation Corps in the United States, in its latest report, lists achievements that take many pages to enumerate. In that country they have not been content simply to keep youth on the dole. They made their relief money work constructively for the upbuilding of America.

Thanks to the C.C.C., the 2,500,000 young men, war veterans, territorial and Indians who have worked in its camps in the past three years have given the United States 104,000 miles of trunk or minor roads; 72,000 miles of telephone lines; 40,000 bridges; 1,741,000,000 trees; 4,700,000 dams in gullies to curtail soil erosion, and 5,394 diversion or impounding dams.

All this has been done not by compulsion or restraint, but by organized voluntary effort on a national scale under the direction of the federal government. The United States has something to show for the money spent on youth relief.

Isn't it time Canada went and did likewise?

Production Without Profit

Australia, like Canada and every other exporting country, is wrestling with the problem of how to keep wheat-growers in business when the business itself is not profitable, nor even financially neutral. The agricultural council there is pondering a half dozen new plans to bonus the growers, which involve the payment of subsidies running from $15,000,000 to $65,000,000 per year. Canada's proposed "bonus," it will be recalled, amounted last year to an estimated $25,000,000.

The present average price in Australia is given as around 52 cents Canadian, 70 cents in Australian money. It is maintained at this figure by subsidies for which the money is obtained by imposing a tax on flour used in the country. The price is evidently not high enough to balance the present prices of farm purchases, since the growers are now asking for an 88 cent Australian price, equivalent to about 65 cents Canadian. In Canada the losses of the treasury through guaranteeing the price of wheat have been met out of general revenue or added to the national debt, no special tax on flour being imposed.

Since the growers in neither country are content, it is evident that neither country has succeeded in solving the problem, but only in devising expedients either of which has obvious advantages and disadvantages. There is an inference that the Australian flour-tax, in helping to raise the cost of living to non-growers and the prices of what the growers have to buy, may have helped to stimulate the demand for a bigger bonus for wheat. An uphill race between the flour-tax and the wheat-bonus is rather indicated by the circumstances.

East and West

According to their story, the Japanese have been winning the little war "on the Mongolian border" hands down, have destroyed all but 30 of the enemy's 400 airplanes, and are just about to go in and polish off the Soviet-Mongol army of 4,000 men.

Incidentally, they disclose that the fighting is not on the Mongolian border but well within Manchukuo, along the Khalka river. Which, if true, means that the Russian-Mongol forces invaded Japan's puppet state, probably thinking this a good opportunity to wipe out some old scores while the Jap army is scattered over the remote area of southern China.

There is internal evidence that the account loses nothing in the telling. But if it is substantially correct, the repulse in the Far East should help Stalin and his associates to make up their minds whether to join the democracies in preserving peace in Europe, stand neutral and take chances on them winning alone, or join the totalitarian chiefs and go for a share of the spoils.

Japs are certainly doing nothing, according to their version of it, to breed friendship between Russia and the European allies. If things are going so badly with them in the east it might be supposed the Soviet chiefs could be anxious to protect their western front by joining the anti-aggression pact, and thus obtain a free hand to deal with the Japanese.

But they do not seem at all anxious on the point. Which may mean that the Manchukuo invasion is only a by-play; or that the Fuehrer is willing to call off his projected raid into the Ukraine in return for Russian neutrality in Europe, or an alliance with the aggressive dictators.

The Passing Show

By J. S. CONFER

Such queer things affect the course of events. Because the Panchen Lama in Tibet died two years ago there is a البشر shortage at places along the China-Tibet frontier. The late Panchen's retinue of 1,000 servants are carrying his body home. A number display their bodies in skin suits for nine months to come.

A BUTTER SHORTAGE meant a thousand mouths to feed on tub butter, the staple article of diet. It meant burning 1,000 butter lamps night and day. So a butter shortage exists in the land of the dead Lamas.

Nothing that takes place in Tibet is half as strange as what takes place in Paris at the style displays. Women in the fashion center wait to learn how they are to be dressed next season for the coming winter. The fashion is to round the waist.

Canon McElheran Dies At Toronto

TORONTO, Aug. 15.—Rev. Canon H. B. McElheran, 62, principal of Wyndham College, Toronto, died yesterday morning. He had been principal of the school since 1920 and canon of St. James Cathedral since 1925. He was a member of Matthew's Anglican church, Winnipeg, from 1907 to 1920.

According To Culbertson

After a recent duplicate game one player was besieged with questions concerning his strategy. "I had old wives' tales on my hand when the king of trump was off-side," was the claim. "Was your left hand opponent astute at the switch?"

"Exactly to the contrary," was the reply. "It was because he was weak and made the only play that might have won me that I took all thirteen tricks."

This was the hand:

North: deuce, North vulnerable.

South-point duplicate.

The bidding:

North: East: South: West:
1 diamond: 4 spades: Pass: Pass:
2 diamonds: 4 spades: Pass: Pass:
4 no trumps: 5 spades: Pass: Pass:
6 spades: Pass: Pass: Pass

At the table the bidding had as shown:

In some cases the North-South teams stopped at four or five spades, and one optimistic pair actually climbed to a six spade contract. West, however, was bid at four tables. In three of the four cases the play proceeded as though West had bid the king of hearts, the game phase was immediately taken. West won with the king and led back to the return that would disturb declarer. The diamond suit was easily established, and the club club and heart found a safe haven.

At the table under discussion West had made an unusual effort to defeat the king of hearts. He had opened with the heart king, but when the trump finesse was immediately taken, he had nothing but unhesitatingly played his hand, low, purposefully jeopardizing his king in an effort to produce a trump finesse. If the declarer in this case had been as gullible as are most declarers, West would have had a most frequent success. Obviously, if declarer had been willing to assume from the "cheats" of the final hand that the king was still in play, he had given dummy's remaining trump for a second finesse. East would have gained a trick, and declarer would have heard for the defeat of the contract. It was merely West's bad luck that he was unable to make his hand, and did not believe that all is gold that glitters.

Instead of getting elated over the fact that the spade ten had held, South had thought to the possibility that the king of hearts was still in play. Declarer reason: "that not all the North-South teams in the room would hold the slam and therefore, in proportion, the more likely the fulfillment of his contract would return a good match-point score—that was the only consideration."

Thus, having taken the precaution to end in his own hand with a spade, declarer had abandoned the opportunity for another finesse and used dummy's remaining trump to ruff a heart. He was returned to the club ring and

GINGHAM GIRL Young Button-Front Frock

2927 SIZES 2-8

Just think of the fun you will have making this cute dress for your little girl! This is a very simple fish applique above the pointed pockets as much as you will enjoy making them. Blue and white checked gingham has a quaint charm and is very smart when accented by a wide collar, cuffs and belt.

Now, don't you feel that your children are vacationing when there are children to be considered?

WHITE TO MAKE ARRANGEMENTS

Now, do not worry whether or not your husband has married again. In that event, with another wife, you should not go to her. During the winter, you say that your father comes every now and then.

The old idea of divorce leaves husband and wife enemies is going the way of many unfortunate traditions.

Now, if you are a widow, you will be able to dress herself very easily if you use large buttons for her tiny fingers to fasten. Princess lines are becoming to small girls and with the added width given by the pleats there is plenty of room for fun.

Yours sincerely,

OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON.

Even though your skin is in radiant good condition, don't let yourself skip any of your daily beauty routine. Your skin is too stupid or too selfish to realize that when a woman is at the head of a beauty contest.

It is the woman's job to keep her beauty routine in top shape.

They need a mother who is on her job instead of a doctor. Nurses can't afford to be sick, especially when they are half-starved. And when they die as they probably would, you ought to be indicted for murder.

Especially your wife is too stupid or too selfish to realize that when a woman is at the head of a beauty routine.

No matter how tired you are at night—no matter how it feels, clean and cream your face before going to bed. It will save you a reconditioning job in the fall.

CITY MAY TRY LURE REFUGEE INDUSTRY IN TOWN

Notice that motion that city commissioners study the feasibility of reducing its electric light and power rates in an effort to lure "refugee" industries from Europe to Edmonton, was filed in court yesterday.

J. A. MENEZ, Alberta Minister of Education: I don't think there is much unnecessary development of our resources. However, here even if we can't make necessary use and production of her natural resources and save them home to her, we can't afford to do so.

QUESTIONED

Asked if he had any objection to having as much of our natural heritage developed as possible, he said: "I am in favour of the development but in the waste of our resources by improvidence or desire."

MRS. GEORGE MACLACHLAN, representative of the natural resources of Canada form a sacred trust that we must guard for the future. Personally, however, I would like to see more of hearing people who should know better talking about Canada's natural resources and resources.

FACT

There is no fact there is any such ultimate need for us to do this. We are rich, but not rich enough, and if we do not have a natural planning board to look after our resources, it will be gone before we know it.

A Delight to Make This Guy Knitting Bag

Weave easily on a broadloom! Bright and cheery—this novel knitting bag, handwoven in stripes of orange, dark blue, red.

You would guess ordinary dishcloths are its base; and that you just run colorful bias binding tape through them.

You need one sturdy 18-inch dishcloth for each side, another for the handle. Work with one cloth at a time, tucked to a broadloom.

Drive tape over a tapestry needle or bobby pin, weave under and over rows of mesh, as the diagram shows, then repeat the tape of another color and so on.

In a jiffy both sides are done and you have a 10x12x4-in. bag. Trim 3½ by 18 inches for the handle. Now sew sides together, turn inside out and attach handle. Line with bright cloth.

Weaving is fun, you'll find, and what a variety of pretty things you can make! You can even weave over a child's play hoop or a discarded bicycle rim. Over a big ice skating basket, weave a colorful skating basket.

Our 32-page booklet gives complete instructions. Diagrams show how to weave and make lovely things—from inexpensive materials on homemade looms. Dollars pillow or chair set, sewing basket lots of others.

Send 15c in coin for your copy of "How to Weave on a Broadloom," plus postage, to The Edmonton Bulletin, Home Service Department, Alberta. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and name of booklet.

Roughies Coming
The Check-Over
Derby Hopes

If case it may have slipped your mind, the Western Football Conference opens here on the night of August 25 under the new floodlights, and August 29 in 10 days away. It therefore becomes imperative to take a gander today at what goes on in the enemy encampments around Edmonton.

Regina Roughriders are our immediate concern since they are the outfit that will open the Conference season here. A continuing impasse with Coach Doug Kerr of Regina has been the result of a dispute with Dean Griffing as to what's a major development this season. Regina seems set to inflict some eastern Canada tactics into the Roughriders' bag of tricks. An effort was made to sign up a number of eastern stars, but it didn't work, so the club compromised by getting McGillis' coach for a short spell.

Coch Dean Griffing has built up as strong a defensive team as there is in the west—but it hasn't had the scoring punch needed to really go places. It appears as if the Roughriders' war council has decided that eastern lateral runs and two-point conversions would possibly be western tactics may be the needed punch. So far Coach Kerr has been drilling the Roughies in a set of six plays involving lateral passing and end zones around the end zones.

Giffing is driving his club right now with the throttle wide open. The ball has gone in three hours each night on the grid. They aren't pulling punches any more either as they tackle and plunge. Friday night Carl Krinke, California lineman, broke a bone in his hand during blocking practice. Berndt Seeley is a stop on the sidelines with a cast on his knee as the result of a bad wrench. The Jerry Griffing has been forced to make any sort of statement about his club's morale, the assurance that the boys are in top physical playing condition right now than they were for the end of last year.

Cleveland, Larose, Danaher and Troy School, a new back from Oklahoma, are doing the kicking for Regis.

Eskimos Will Be Ready

In Edmonton the Eskimos will be ready for the starting whistle. Both Fred Fries and Line Cook Ross Wile have also brought their squad into fine physical condition and are ready to throw out a starting lineup that should be the equal of anything in the west.

Whether the supply of reserves will be sufficient to offset first string casualties is still the question that will probably determine how far Edmonton will go toward the conference title. The Eks are not exactly without subs, but, just as you, need plenty of good reserves to keep a club bowling along through a terrific schedule of 12 games of the sort of football that is played on the prairies.

The city is erecting the poles to carry the 10 batteries of floodlights, today at Clarke Stadium. As soon as the lights are ready, Coach Fries will probably use them for several practices to get the boys accustomed to them.

The Other Two Fronts

CALGARY announced the other day with the arrival of Bar-B-Bar C former Mississippi fullback that it had completed its improving business for this season. What sort of a team Dick Haugan will put out is still a question. He seems to have a lot of first-class material and will likely be suitable for any club that looks the Banks' Metro. They are not the only ones that are in negotiations this summer, however.

Winnipeg is another big question mark this year. The Bomber coaches have told Threlfall that it is to concentrate on developing local material rather than depend on expensive imports. If you know where the native Bombers can do against those raw imports you will have an answer to Winnipeg's showing this season. These boys have got advantage over their opponents in that they are more numerous than the others. They are the second best team in the league.

Calgary and nobody is likely to agree with him about it.

With the opening games little more than a week away, it looks to me as if the 1939 season will produce much closer battles than last year did. It doesn't look as if any club will have much of an edge on the others.

In the meantime don't forget the Booster Club rally in the Mason Temple at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, when most of all Winnipegs 1938 conference games will be shown and commented on by Coach Fred Fries. Every football fan is cordially invited to attend.

Edmonton Has Derby Hope

MARSHALL Bowman—writing in the Miners' Park here—lays up the possibility that one more minor victory by winning Edmonton's final Alberta Derby victory when that feature race is run at Chinook Park, Calgary, on August 31. The filly, owned by Jack Glover, had a smart field of Derby runners yesterday and was steadily increasing her lead at the end of the seven furlong affair.

Calgary-trained horses have won six of the eight Alberta Derby dashes to date. The Whittier Farm Stock Firm of Winnipegs and the Tain Stable of Airdrie took the winners' purse on the other two occasions.

Sir Malcolm Can't See Objections to Noise of His Boat

CONISTON, England, Aug. 15.—Sir Malcolm Campbell arrived last night for an assault on his world water speed record on Lake Coniston, and Herd R. Knights, Administrator of the Coniston Waterways, was sold the noisy attempt being made here.

"This is the first time I have ever attempted to race on a British lake," said Sir Malcolm. "I do so because I have heard of protests. I think it is ridiculous and I cannot understand the objections' point of view."

Kilmer Leaves Bring Low Prices

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y., Aug. 15.—Spurred bidding was lacking last night as 59 head of racing stock from Willis S. Kilmer's Court Manor stud at Virginia, and Herd R. Knights, Administrator of the Coniston Waterways, were sold the noisy attempt being made here.

Civics to Play Juniors; Soccer Council to Meet

Kilmer's consignment of 43 head went under the hammer for $72,000, or an average of $1,661, considerably under the price his stock usually brings.

EDMONTON OWNER COPS TWO PURSES

Glover Stable Takes Pair Races Monday

By BILL LEWIS

EDMONTON stable of J. S. Glover stole the major part of the spotlight on the second day's program of the annual fall race meeting at the Exhibition track Monday afternoon.

Twice during the afternoon horses sent to the post by the stable owner came through with victories and both were scored in the day's featured events. First of these came when his two-year-old colt, Camp Spar, captured the Kindergarten Purse, and the second was registered when his three-year-old filly, Marion Somers, staged a spectacular stretch run to take the Hilltop Purse, one of the most important of the Alberta Derby trials.

The triumph of Marion Somers was one of the most impressive on the card. She is the leading contender for the Alberta Derby to run at Calgary's Chinook Trail on August 29. Marion Somers is a filly to fifth in the setting and running in third place as the field hit the stretch turn, the Glover filly snatched her real class with $16,400 straight, $6,45 place and $4,400 show.
